

Mark Kmill

Graduated from Lakehead University with a Degree in Philosophy and in the process of completing my honours in Psychology

I am interning at the Lakehead Psychiatric Hospital for St. Joseph's Care Group in support of Team Werks Co-op. Team Werks is a social enterprise assisting in the rehabilitation and recovery of mental health services consumers through vocational means.

My title is Business Developer, which is about half accurate. I have developed a website and brochures for the co-op and the Employment Options Program, created numerous marketing materials for the co-op, initiated the development of a newsletter for the members of the co-op and assisted with policy revisions and updates. The other half has been working as an Occupational Instructor, supporting and assisting with day to day operations of the co-op.

I'm interested in mental health and addictions and pursuing a career in this field at this time. It has also been great working with the co-op, and I could envision myself working in a co-operative setting as well.
